

“Well I never knew that”

Bravely stepping up to the mark is Terry Curtis. My thanks to him.

How long have you been playing bowls?

Three years.

Your favourite piece of music?

Nimrod by Edward Elgar.

What did you do in your working life?

On leaving school, I served a three year apprenticeship as a lathe turner. I then joined the Royal Signals and served 40 years in the Army, the last 17 of which was as Regimental Sergeant Major. During my time in the Army I served in many parts of the world and was fortunate that my late wife was there to support me and our family

Which living person do you most admire?

My daughter, who is a director in the NHS and has been heavily involved in their response to the current pandemic.

Favourite meal?

Roast beef and all the trimmings.

Favourite holiday destination?

Cyprus, where I was based for some time and love to return there.

Favourite book?

Anything by Stephen King.

Proudest moment?

The birth of my two children.

Favourite place to play bowls other than Bembridge?

Warners, a lovely location and I have guested for them on several occasions in tourist matches.

Favourite film?

Any Sherlock Holmes film as I love trying to work out who did it and why.
